

Yakovetic

- a true renaissance man, taking that which is seen as common and breathing into it new life and a uniquely fresh spirit.

An award winning set and costume designer, Yakovetic's creative expertise includes book design, illustration, concept and prop design for theatre and theme parks, and sculpting in a variety of mediums.

Disney art lovers worldwide have dubbed Yakovetic the "Painter of Shadows." The realistic interpretations capture evocative moments from Disney's most beloved films, including Mary Poppins, Snow White, and Sleeping Beauty. Fans eagerly search for shadows and images hidden in his highly sought after paintings.

"Surrender Dorothy," Yakovetic's first creation in The Wizard of Oz series, premiered in 2008 as part of Warner Brothers' The Ruby Slipper Collection and The Inspirations of Oz Fine Art Exhibition.

The unique beauty of the Yakovetic legacy will extend to the Warner Brothers classic film Gone with the Wind. This series of original fine art paintings will showcase the Celebrity and Signature Series Limited Editions featuring the film's cast members.

"With each painting I create, it is my desire to transport the viewer back to that one unique moment in time that, for them, forever defined the heart of the film."
