

2013 Missouri Cherry Blossom Festival
Ella Dickey Award Recipient

Julia Flynn Siler is an author and journalist. Her first book was The New York Times bestseller, The House of Mondavi: The Rise and Fall of an American Wine Dynasty. Her second book, Lost Kingdom: Hawaii's Last Queen, the Sugar Kings, and America's First Imperial Adventure, was a San Francisco Chronicle bestseller and is now available in paperback.

A journalist for more than two decades, Ms. Flynn Siler has written for The New York Times and was a London-based foreign correspondent for The Wall Street Journal as well as BusinessWeek. She is now a contributing writer for The Wall Street Journal, working from its San Francisco bureau.

The House of Mondavi, her first book, began as a front-page story for The Wall Street Journal and was honored as a finalist for both a James Beard Foundation award and a Gerald Loeb award for distinguished business reporting. She lives in Northern California with her husband and their two sons. Please visit www.juliaflynnsiler.com to learn more.