

Joyce Ragland, Ed.D. is the author of more than one hundred academic publications in the form of two books, articles, reports, conference proceedings, training modules, conference papers. She has been editor or reviewer of publications by Prentice-Hall, McGraw-Hill, Wiley and major publishers. In addition to academic publications, she has published short stories and poetry one bilingual easy reader published for a fund-raiser for her own NFP company that provides activities for Alzheimer's victims. Her newest publication is Dread the FRED, a creative nonfiction book that is now available through your favorite bookstore, Amazon.com, Kindle, and NOOK.

DREAD THE FRED is a creative retelling of the year that Conway High School won the national B.E.S.T. Robotics championship. It is inspirational, dramatic, and full of surprises.

Check out Joyce's blog: www.jcraglandwriting.blogspot.com